BOLTON WANDERERS v PETERBOROUGH UNITED

DOUGIE FREEDMAN

Hello and welcome to this evening's re-arranged match against Peterborough United. I'd also like to welcome Darren Ferguson, his players, staff and fans who have made the journey to the Reebok, as well as our match sponsors Techia.

Having fixtures in quick succession is exactly what we want at this stage of the season. We come into what is our second home game in four days in good form following our win over Hull City.

I thought it was a strong team performance at the weekend. We played very well from box-to-box, were clinical in taking the chances we created and solid as a defensive unit.

We tweaked the side slightly from our draw at Derby and that allowed us to nullify the threats that Hull have.

The first goal set the tone for us. We were always on the front-foot and we were also able to give minutes to David Wheater and Medo Kamara which was pleasing.

Gone are the days in football when the same 11 play week in week out. That's why it is good that we are gradually seeing our long-term injury absentees back in our squad. I believe that the modern game demands more both mentally and physically. Different teams will present us with different problems and I will always look to make full use of my options.

Every player in my squad has to fight for their position in the team. I want my players to have that hunger and desire required to play for Bolton Wanderers. I want a hungry club with hungry fans – that combination will certainly see that we move forward as one.

You, the fans, have been really supportive of our efforts and I would like to thank you all for that. We have had great backing both home and away. At both Derby and Nottingham Forest the support was loud and vocal and at the weekend there was a tremendous atmosphere inside the Reebok. That can only benefit the players on the pitch.

Finally, our under-18s are in action tomorrow night in the quarter-finals of the FA Youth Cup at Nottingham Forest. They reached the last eight after an excellent performance and an emphatic win against Tottenham at White Hart Lane.

When I first started talking to the chairman, one of the very first questions I asked was about the club's youth policy and academy. The fact that we have since achieved a Category One status is testament to the hard work put in by Jimmy Philips, Sammy Lee, David Lee, Tony Kelly and all of the staff at Lostock.

In the next 18 months I am looking to see players graduate from the youth team into the first team setup. This season we have involved several of the academy players in the first team squad, both in training and on matchdays. It has been great to see their attitude and effort and that can only bode well for the future.

Enjoy the game this evening.

KEVIN DAVIES

Good evening and welcome back to the Reebok Stadium for our second successive home game.

We're on a real good run of form at the moment. We've looked resolute and have executed some well-worked game-plans over our last few away games. The general feeling amongst the lads is that we could have probably have won at least one of the games at Nottingham Forest and Derby County.

It was then pleasing to see the performance the lads put in against Hull City at the weekend. We flew out of the traps and were able to comfortably see the remainder of the game out.

We all felt like that kind of performance and result had been coming at home. Hopefully it will be a bit of a turning point in our season and it will give us the confidence to hit a winning streak.

With a lot of the previously injured lads now back in and amongst the first team squad we suddenly have a really strong squad. It was nice to see the reception that big David Wheeler received when he came on at the weekend. He's a top lad, and, like the other guys who have spent time on the sidelines this season, has worked ever so hard to get back to full fitness.

You only had to look at some of the players on the bench at the weekend to realise we're in a strong position to push on for the remainder of the season. Both Chris Eagles and Steve De Ridder were unused subs and these guys are top players.

We now know we must kick on. We've said it a lot this season, but it is imperative we go out there this evening and do the business.

Casting our minds back to when we last met Peterborough, we know that it not only has to be a different end outcome, but a different type of game. We weren't at the races that day and it was a bitterly disappointing day for all involved.

There's always something special about playing at the Reebok Stadium under the lights. Throughout my career I have been fortunate enough to play at some of the world's best stadia, and not many come close to a night game at the Reebok. When everyone is in full voice and we're at our very best there's no doubt that it's a difficult place for sides to come and play football.

Finally, I'd like to congratulate Craig Davies and his partner on the birth of their baby boy Caydon. Craig's settled in really well with the rest of the lads and has shown how much of a handful he can be for opposing defenders.

Enjoy the game.

IN MEMORIAM

Stephen Eric Busfield
January 18 1951 - February 12 2013

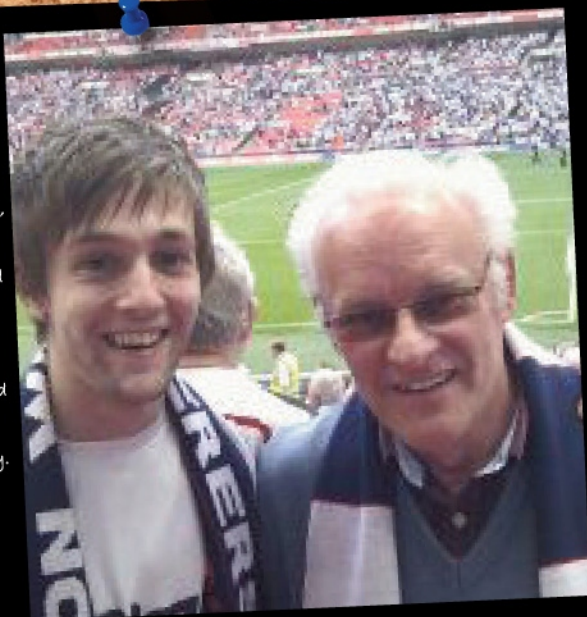

In loving memory of Stephen, a beloved husband to Jennifer and father to Michael, 23, and Louise, 20.

We could not have asked for a kinder and more loving husband and father.

He was always there for us if we needed help with anything, a gentleman and a best friend. Stephen will be deeply missed by both friends and family.

He always looked forward to a matchday.

Love from Jennifer, Michael and Louise.

KEEPING IT IN THE FAMILY

Marcos Alonso was born into a family with a long footballing tradition. Both his father and his grandfather represented Spain, earning numerous of honours during two glittering careers. Now, the young Wanderers full-back is hoping to continue his family's footballing story with the Whites.

MARCOS ALONSO

Did Cristiano Ronaldo really teach him how to take free-kicks? Is it true that both his father and grandfather played at the highest level in Spain? What was it like playing for Real Madrid? And how did his and Diego Maradona's paths cross?

WE PUT YOUR QUESTIONS TO...

MARCOS ALONSO

Football certainly runs in the family for Marcos Alonso. His grandfather represented Real Madrid for many years, earning a plethora of prestigious European honours, while his father enjoyed an equally impressive career playing for both Atletico Madrid and Barcelona. Now, the third generation star is hoping to one day follow in their footsteps.

Alonso joined Wanderers in July 2010 from his hometown club Real Madrid, although he initially found it difficult to hold down a regular place in Bolton's starting line-up. But now, under the stewardship of Dougie Freedman, the 22-year-old is enjoying his longest spell in the side and the full-back is reaping the rewards on the pitch.

A star performer over the Christmas period, Alonso has gained many plaudits for his recent displays. And the left-back is confident that Wanderers can now end the campaign on a high and, while he still harbours hopes of one day returning to Spain to emulate his forefathers, he firmly sees his immediate future at the Reebok.

The official matchday programme sat down with the talented defender, asking him your questions, to find out about his time with Real, his family's long footballing tradition and the moment he met Maradona.

How did you first get involved in football?

Andrew Jenkins via Facebook

Since I was a kid all we used to talk about in my house was football. I have always liked football ever since I was very small. When I was young I just used to play for fun, but when I was about 11 I began to take it seriously and I knew I wanted to be become a footballer. Now I just want to continue to play here, keep on improving and play for the national team.

What team did you used to play for when you were growing up in Madrid?

Danny Lindley via Twitter

I used to play for my local team before I went to play for a team linked with Real Madrid called Adarve. I played there for one year before having a trial with Real. I began to play for Madrid when I was 10-years-old and I played in every age group until I was 17, when I had a season-and-a-half playing with the second team while training with the first team. After that season there were a lot of teams interested in me and I decided that Bolton was the best option for me.

You have now established yourself in Dougie Freedman's first team, how does it feel to be playing on a regular basis?

Jo Thompson via Twitter

It feels really good to be playing regular first team football. That is what I have wanted for the last two years, but injuries meant I didn't play as much. Now I am in the side and I just want to keep on improving. I am now really confident with the manager and the team and I just want to continue to play regularly, keep on improving and help the team win.

You have been in and out of the team for the last two seasons, has this been difficult for you?

Luke Evans via Email

Yes it was difficult for me, but I don't want to think about it now and I just want to think about the future, starting with this game against Peterborough as we try and claim three points.

How has your game developed since you arrived at Bolton?

Jordan Scott via Twitter

I think my career really started when I came here. When I arrived I had only played as a full-back for two years and I think I still had a lot to learn about defending.

But now I think that I am a much better defender than I am going forward. I think I have learnt a lot about how to defend in England. The game is more physical here and we do more work in the gym, working on our strength and physical attributes.

Is there a big difference between the English and Spanish style of football?

Ayden Smith via Facebook

It is quite different. Here, no team really tries to keep hold of the ball. Whenever a team gets the ball they always try to attack and move the ball forward. There really isn't a lot of football played across the midfield and every time it is just a transition. One team attacks, loses the ball, then the other team attacks and loses the ball.

In my opinion it is better for the fans here as they get to see a more open game, not like in Spain when a team goes up they sometimes don't even try to move forward.

Playing in England has helped with my development. Here you run more than you do in Spain. If I do ever go back to Spain I believe that I will be much better physically then I was when I left.

What are your plans for next year? Do you want to stay with Bolton?

Jordan Robinson via Twitter

I am just concentrating on playing football. I just want to play games. I am very happy to be here and I have been over the last two years. My head is at Bolton and I am enjoying my football.

Would you like to go back and play for Real Madrid again one day?

Lee Stokes via Facebook

One day I would like to go back to Real Madrid, although I think I need to improve more as a player. I am very happy here at Bolton, but in the future you never know.

What was it like playing for Spanish giants Real Madrid?

Greg Munslow via Twitter

It was amazing. You travel with the first team and you have 5,000 people waiting at the airport and at the hotel to greet you. There is then another 2,000 people following you wherever you go. People in all parts of Spain support Real. They are a big club, if not the biggest in the world.

Who did you play with while at the Real Madrid academy?

Robert Russell via Facebook

I trained with Juan Mata, who is now at Chelsea, when we were both at the Real Madrid academy. I was 16 and he was 18. I also used to play with Real's new keeper Diego Lopez; he played at the academy too.

“When I tell people my grandfather won five European Cups they are shocked.”

With the national team, I was alongside Sergio Gonzalez who is at Valencia now; he is a good friend of mine. I was also in the same team as David de Gea, and I still see him a lot now. We have been friends since we were very young and I like to remain in touch with them all.

I've seen you and David de Gea out and about in Manchester, do you see each other a lot?

Alessandra Garcia via Twitter

Yes we do. A lot of the time we watch football together at my house or we go out for food. We also go shopping and we are now able to go the cinema as David's English is getting better.

What kind of food do you like to eat?

Spencer Hedges via Facebook

I like Italian food - it is very good. There are some Brazilian places in Manchester which are also nice, but my favourite food at the moment would be Japanese. I usually go out and eat with my friends and family who come over from Spain. I catch up on a regular basis with Stuart Holden and we spend a lot of time together.

Has your English improved since you arrived?

Claire Franks via Facebook

When I first came here I didn't know much English, but now I can have normal conversations with everybody at the club. But I still struggle a little sometimes.

Is it true that both your father and your grandfather played at the highest level in Spain?

Carl Donaldson via Twitter

When I tell people about my grandfather they can't believe it. He used to play for Real Madrid and won five European Cups. My father played for Atletico Madrid and then for Barcelona, and they both played for the Spanish national team too. They are a real inspiration for me and give me the belief that I can play for the Spanish national team one day. When I was young I used to watch them on video and I was so impressed watching my grandfather playing in a European Cup final.

Is it true that your family are good friends with Maradona?

Kendal Jones via Facebook

My father used to play with Maradona when he was at Barcelona and I met him when I was younger. I don't really remember too much about it as I was too young. I actually have a picture with him which is amazing. I think both Maradona and Lionel Messi are the best players ever.

I was about 3 or 4-years-old when I met Maradona. I saw him again when I was a little older but I don't really remember. I just remember a lot of flashes from the cameras going off as he was there to meet my father. I used to find it weird that people wanted to speak to my dad and ask for photos and autographs while we were out. I now obviously understand why!

Who was your role model growing up?

Maria Espinoza via Facebook

I think if I had to choose a role model as an example for who I want to be in life then it would certainly be my dad.

How is Rodrigo doing now he is back at Benfica? Did we ever see the best of him at Bolton?

Tony Sungdu via Twitter

Last year he did very well at Benfica and he was playing great for the under-21 Spanish national team. This year I don't think he is playing as much because Benfica have signed a couple of very good strikers, but he is only 22 and I think he has a very big future ahead of him. He has been playing well for the national team so after a bit of time I think he can become one of the top players in the world. He is definitely one to look out for in the future.

You have played for both Real Madrid and Bolton. What is it you like about white kits?

Ed Keenan via Twitter

Ha, Bolton has now also changed to Adidas so the two kits are also very similar. I don't really mind the colour of the kits, as long as I'm happy and playing! I'm just playing for Bolton and trying my best to help the team win.

Who did you support growing up?

Alex Russell via Facebook

It was quite complicated because my grandfather used to play for Real Madrid but my father played for both Atletico and Barcelona. My mum used to support Atletico, and to be honest when I was young I used to support Barca. But once I started to play for Real at a young age I had to support the. But now of course I support Bolton all the way!

You have trained with some top players like Cristiano Ronaldo and Kaka, what was this like?

Oli Todd via Twitter

I think it was very good for a young kid to play with those kind of players and I have really learnt from them. But now it is just a story to tell to my friends and family that I used to train with one of the best players in the world.

Ronaldo was never an easy one to stop in training. He is an amazing player and I think his physical condition is incredible; the way he jumps is amazing. I think this comes from natural talent and his desire to work hard. The best thing he has is his ambition. He always wants more and he always wants to score more and more goals. I used to try and hit the free-kicks like him but I threw the towel in and I learnt to do it my way.

What type of player do you think you are and what is your favourite position?

Richard Dakin via Facebook

My first aim is to always defend, but of course I like to help the team going forward as well. I like to score goals, I like to take free-kicks and I like the fans to enjoy the football we play. I think the game against Everton was a good game for me and I like to entertain the fans, but the most important thing is that we win.

Training has been very good with the new manager. The way we are playing is much better and we can see that when we play against good teams like Sunderland and Everton. We just need to stick to this style of play and I think the results will come. With more hunger I think we can end this season in good shape and really push on up the league table.

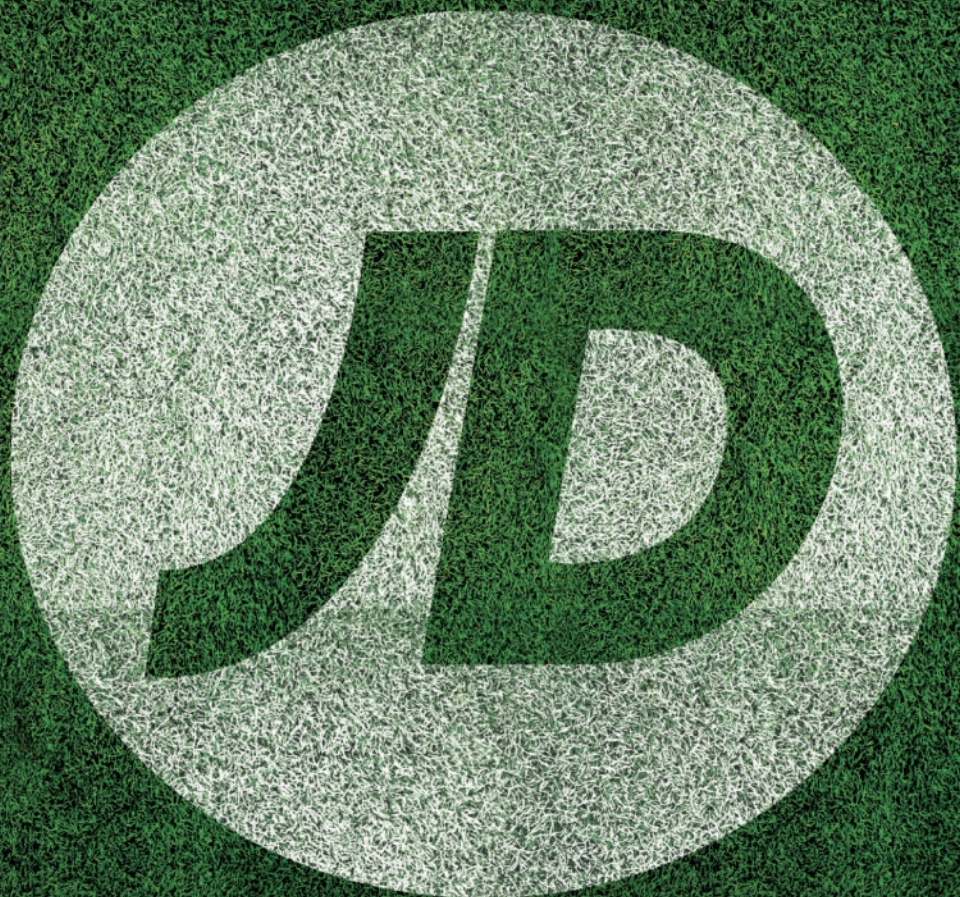

Do you have any hobbies?

Michael Carter via Email

In my free time in the summer I like to surf. I also like going to Miami with my cousin, who is studying over there. So as soon as the season finishes, after the play-offs, I will pack my bags and be celebrating a play-off victory on the way to Miami!

PETERBOROUGH V BOLTON

22 DECEMBER 2012

Sam Ricketts wasn't afraid to get his white shirt dirty when Wanderers visited a mud-soaked London Road, as the defender fought to claim the ball from Peterborough stopper Robert Olejnik. The Trotters would ultimately be on the wrong-end of a nine-goal thriller that day, as two penalties from Keith Andrews and late strikes from Benik Afobe and Martin Petrov unfortunately weren't enough for Dougie Freedman's side.

IMPACT SUBSTITUTIONS

Even though Wanderers found themselves on the wrong end of a nine goal thriller against Peterborough United before Christmas, they had substitutes Benik Afobe and Martin Petrov to thank for giving the first meeting against the Posh in 18 years a thrilling climax.

In this issue we take a look back at ten other substitutions which changed the course of the game for Bolton.

WORDS: MARK HEYS

David Ngog - vs Charlton 2012

Three months ago against Charlton at home, the game was equally balanced with 15 minutes to go, however substitute David Ngog provided a cutting edge with two late strikes, showing his credentials in front of goal to seal the win over last season's League One champions.

Fabian DeFreitas - vs Reading 1995

With his side 2-0 down to Reading in the 1995 play-off final, Dutchman Fabien DeFreitas was introduced. The striker took the game into extra-time when he slotted home late on before bundling home Mixu Paatelainen's cross to send Bolton into the top flight for the first time in fifteen years.

Daniel Sturridge - vs Wolves 2011

Daniel Sturridge announced his arrival at Bolton with a last-minute winner in a Premier League match-up with Wolves in February 2011. Name: Steve Thompson

Date of birth: 2 November, 1964

Place of birth: Oldham

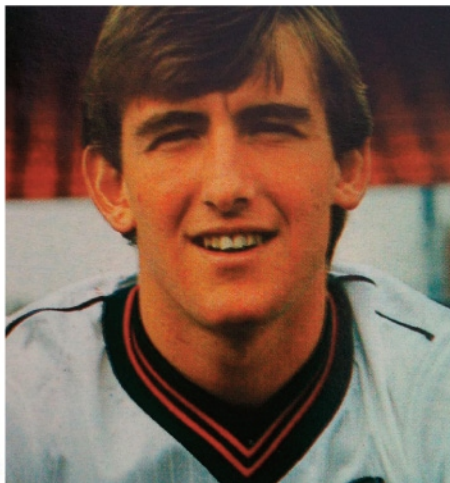

Position: Midfielder

Time at BWFC: 1982-1991

BWFC appearances: 422

BWFC goals: 57

BWFC magic moment: After working hard in the youth system, Thompson's magic moment was making his first time bow as a teenager.

THEN:

Working his way up through Wanderers' ranks, Steve Thompson eventually made his breakthrough at Bolton in 1982 when he was handed his full debut, and he would enjoy a long and fruitful spell with the Whites that lasted nine years.

Thompson joined the Trotters as an apprentice before signing his first professional contract under manager John McGovern.

The midfielder enjoyed a highly successful career with the Whites, playing over 400 games and scoring 57 goals in all competitions.

Thompson called time on his career at Burnden Park in August 1991 when he moved to Luton Town, before enjoying future spells with Leicester City, Burnley and Rotherham United.

NOW:

After ending his playing career, Thompson moved into the world of coaching and he is now the assistant manager at Championship rivals Blackpool.

After being involved with the club since 2005, Thompson was promoted to first team coach at Bloomfield Road after the appointment of Simon Grayson as manager in 2006.

The 48-year-old coached the team in the 2006/07 season as the Seaside's gained promotion to the Championship, and Thompson was also Ian Holloway's assistant manager when Blackpool got promoted back to England's top flight in 2010.

After the departure of Holloway in November, Thompson was appointed caretaker manager, but he has now resumed his role as assistant to new boss Paul Ince.

Fact: Thompson's son, Curtis, currently plays for Blackpool.

WHAT HE SAID: "I'll just have to see what happens. I think Paul wants me to work with his team. I'll keep my head down and work as hard as I can for him but, further down the line, I want to be number one."

THEY NOW?

THEN:

Stuart Storer experienced brief stints with a number of clubs during the early years of his footballing career, but when he moved to Burden Park in 1987, it finally brought some stability as he began a long and prosperous spell with the Whites.

The defender moved to Bolton from Everton for a sum of £25,000, and it was his four-year stint with Wanderers that sparked Storer's career into life.

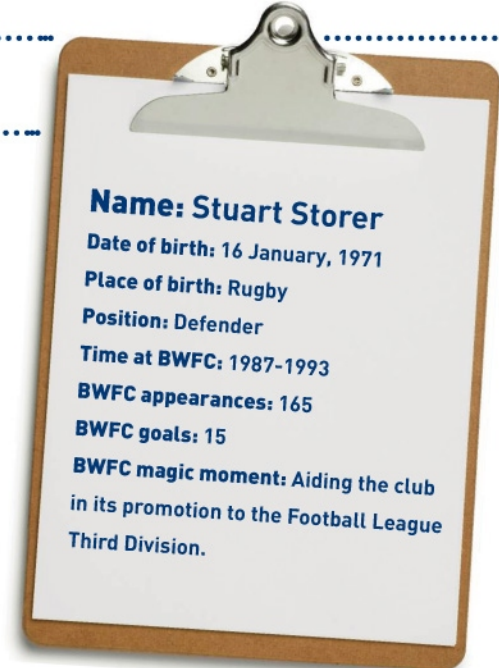

After an initial struggle that saw the Trotters relegated to Division Four, the pacey Storer helped the side gain promotion in 1988, before repeating the feat in 1992 when they came runners-up in Division Three in the year that he departed.

Following a five-year spell at Bolton, Storer enjoyed stints with Exeter City, Atherstone United, Kettering Town and Chesham United.

Fact: While at Bolton, Storer was integral as the Whites won the Sherpa Van Trophy in the 1988- 1989, a cup that is now known as the Johnstone's Paint Trophy

WHAT HE SAID: "Hinckley is a club that I'm really fond of. I just want them to sort out their financial problems so I can do my job and make the club a success again. It doesn't matter how long it takes, I would like to be a part of that."

NOW:

Storer, like many ex-professionals, moved into the world of coaching and is now the first team coach at Conference North side Hinckley United.

The 46-year-old ended his playing career at the Leicestershire-based club in 2010 but stayed involved at the club in a coaching capacity.

He began his coaching career as first team coach and then for the 2010/2011 season Storer became assistant manager.

The defender reverted back to becoming first team coach in July 2011, and Mark Faulkner was brought in as assistant manager in August 2011.

Financial troubles surrounding the club has hampered their progression as Hinckley currently sit bottom of the Conference North.

It meant a first ever visit to the racecourse ground and new territory for the players and supporters. The run continued when World Cup winner Roger Hunt scored both goals in a 2-1 victory over the side from North Wales.

Sam Allardyce's side put the disappointment of their UEFA Cup exit at Marseille behind them by carrying on their great run in the Premiership.

In what was considered by many to be Bolton's best team in recent history, there was an array of top talent on display with the likes of Jay-Jay Okocha, Hidetoshi Nakata and Stelios Giannakopoulos, added to the hardworking Bruno N'Gotty, Kevin Nolan and Kevin Davies. Bolton had been on a great run since losing at Craven Cottage the previous November, with only one defeat in 11 Premiership fixtures. On a cold day at the Reebok, the Whites carried on the good form, with an own-goal from future Wanderer Heidar Helguson before Kevin Nolan hit Bolton's second in an excellent 2-1 victory.

OSCAR THRELKELD

ASPIRING DEFENDER KEEN TO KEEP IMPROVING

WORDS: EMMA NORRIS

Many youngsters look to their grandparents for advice. And for Wanderers scholar Oscar Threlkeld, this was certainly the case when it came to making his way in the game.

Having grown up watching his elder brother Elliot represent Radcliffe Town, Threlkeld was simply happy to be involved in football.

This proved to be the catalyst for his fledgling career, with the youngster being spotted by Bolton scouts who had initially been monitoring his brother, although unfortunately this was to come a couple of years too soon.

"Unfortunately I was only five so I wasn't old enough to have a trial. But they told my grandad to get in touch when I turned seven," he explained.

"After that I joined Radcliffe to get some experience, but as soon we could we went back to Bolton and they took me on straight away."

It was a dream come true for the lifelong Wanderers fan, and the central defender revealed that he wouldn't be where he is today without the help of his grandparents Jose & Phil.

"They've been brilliant," he enthused. "They would always take me to games and training, and my grandad used to take me to see Bolton play. I'd just sit there watching all the players and think how much I wanted to be playing on that pitch one day."

After securing his place in the club's academy, that dream was one step closer to becoming a reality. Determined to make the most of the opportunity that had been handed to him, Threlkeld worked his way up through the youth set-up, developing a reputation as a reliable centre-half.

Having enjoyed a relatively smooth transition through the ranks, the defender's resolve was tested shortly after he was awarded his scholarship when he suffered a broken ankle that sidelined him for nearly eight months.

Such a disappointment would be enough to derail the most hardened of characters, but for Threlkeld it was simply part and parcel of helping him develop into the player he is today.

"I did keep worrying whether I would be the same player when I got back, but I proved to myself that I could do it," he admitted.

"Sometimes when people get a bad injury, their head goes and they start wondering if they'll be able to get back out there, particularly when going in for tackles, but the broken ankle has made me into a better player and I'd tell anyone in the same situation that it will make you stronger in the long run."

An integral member of the Whites' development squad this season, the 18-year-old believes that his experiences during the current campaign will stand him in good stead as he aims to convince Dougie Freedman that he is worthy of a professional contract.

"Being at the academy has made me realise just how much I want to be playing this game for a living," he said. "The manager has got a really good mentality with the younger players, so I'm hoping that will only help when it comes to him making his decision."

WANDERERS V HULL CITY

Bolton Wanderers made it back-to-back wins at home with an emphatic 4-1 win over promotion-chasing Hull City at the Reebok Stadium.

Dougie Freedman's side caused the majority of the damage inside the opening eight minutes, racing into a three-goal lead courtesy of strikes from Darren Pratley, Mark Davies and Craig Dawson.

Hull pulled a goal back midway through the second half thanks to Robbie Brady's free-kick, however Bolton made sure of the points three minutes later as Dawson grabbed his second of the afternoon with an instinctive finish.

Wanderers are now unbeaten in their last four Championship outings and continue their climb up the table.

MANAGER'S REACTION:

“ We tweaked the team and played Mark Davies just behind the two strikers and looked to attack from the off. We created and took our chances very well. ”

OPPOSITION SUMMARY

After gaining promotion from League One in 2011, Peterborough United have started to find their feet in what is the club's second consecutive Championship campaign.

Seven defeats from their opening seven league games left them propping up the table, but Darren Ferguson's side improved after securing three very impressive wins over the Christmas period.

The Posh became the first team to beat Cardiff City on their own patch this season as they left the Welsh capital with all three points, before returning to London Road where they came out on top in a 5-4 thriller against the Whites. Peterborough then beat Wolves 3-0 at Molineux to climb off the bottom of the table but the year ended with a 4-2 defeat at Bristol City.

Despite being knocked out of the FA Cup by Norwich City, the Cambridgeshire-based side will be happy with their start to 2013 in the Championship and recent wins over Barnsley and Millwall will have given the side new hope.

VISITING VIEW

Joe Dent, a member of Peterborough United's media department and club photographer, recognises that the club have endured a difficult season, but is confident that results will improve in the latter stages of the campaign.

He said: "It has been tough for Posh. After losing the first seven games of the season it was always going to be an uphill task, but with some positive results against teams fighting for promotion there is belief at the club that survival can be achieved.

"Darren Ferguson has added Dwight Gayle, another young talent, to the squad that achieved Championship survival last season. The youngster scored seven goals in his first seven starts for the club and has been a threat up front all season."

Dent believes Peterborough have the quality in their squad to stay in the Championship and he fully expects the side to travel to the North West in a positive frame of mind. He added: "Posh will certainly be going to the Reebok looking for all three points and if they put in a good performance they will be confident of getting a positive result.

"The score could be anything, as we saw with the 5-4 victory at London Road back in December, although I'm sure they will quite happily take a 1-0 win."

THE MANAGER DARREN FERGUSON

Born: Glasgow, Scotland
Date of Birth: 09/02/1972

Ex-Manchester United midfielder Darren Ferguson is now in his second spell in the hot-seat at London Road after beginning his managerial career with the club in 2007.

Ferguson started his playing career under his father at Old Trafford before joining Wolves in 1994. The Glaswegian opted to move abroad in 1999, joining Dutch side Sparta Rotterdam, but he made a quick return to the English Football League when he signed for Wrexham later that year. He went on to make over 300 appearances at the Racecourse Ground.

The 40-year-old earned two successive promotions in his first spell with Peterborough before joining Preston North End in 2010.

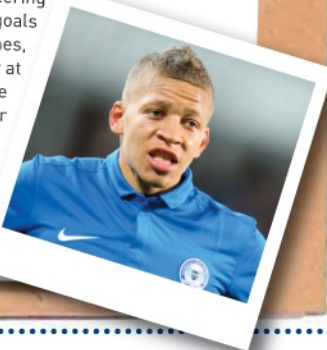

But a poor spell in the North West saw him return to the Posh in January 2011 and he guided the club back to the Championship with a 3-0 play-off final victory over Huddersfield Town in May 2011.

It is currently the fourth biggest football stadium in the country, with only Wembley, Old Trafford and the Emirates able to house more spectators. Wanderers last victory on Tyneside came in October 2006, when two second-half goals from El-Hadji Diouf ensured the Whites left the North East with a 2-1 win.

STAMFORD BRIDGE

Bolton's last win at the home of Chelsea came in 2003. Despite going 1-0 down when Hernan Crespo opened the scoring, a goal from Bruno N'Gotty just before the break and a deflected Henrik Pedersen effort completed a remarkable turnaround. It was the Londoners' first home defeat in the league under new owner Roman Abramovic and it was Bolton's first win at the Bridge since 1975.

SELHURST PARK

The 26,000 capacity stadium provided the backdrop for Wanderers' first ever Premier League game and goal. On the opening day of the season against Wimbledon, who were then the tenants of Crystal Palace's south London home, Alan Thompson fired home a first-half penalty in a match Colin Todd's men eventually went on to lose 3-2. The most recent trip made by a Bolton side was one month ago, when Dougie Freedman returned to his former club and led the Whites to a credible 0-0 draw against the high-flying Eagles.

S IS ALSO FOR...

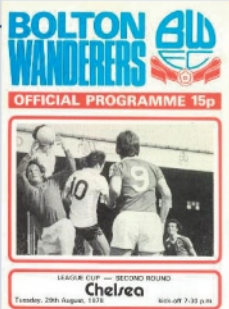

SHEFFIELD UNITED

Bolton's best ever cup win came against the Yorkshire side in the 1890 FA Cup second round. This was the first meeting between the two sides and saw Wanderers triumph 13-0.

SECOND DIVISION

Wanderers won the Second Division title in 1909 and 1978. The Trotters secured the first title finishing one point ahead of Tottenham Hotspur, while in the 1977/78 season they fought off second-placed Southampton to finish a point clear again.

THE PLAYERS

JIM SMITH

Forward Joe Smith started his career at Bolton in 1908 after leaving Crewe Alexandra as a youngster. With the Whites, he collected two FA Cup medals and won a Second Division title in 1908/09. He was also part of the side that finished third in the top flight in the 1920/21 season. Smith set a club record, which still stands today of 38 goals in a single season.

ALAN STUBBS

Liverpool-born centre back Alan Stubbs came through the youth ranks at Wanderers and broke into the senior squad in 1990. Following the appointment of Bruce Rioch in 1992, Stubbs became an integral part of the first team and was made club captain in 1994. During this period, he led the team out twice at Wembley, in the narrow League Cup final defeat to Liverpool and the victorious Division One play-off final against Reading.

GRETAR STEINSSON

Bolton signed the Icelandic defender for a fee of £3.5million in January 2008 from Dutch side AZ Alkmaar. His first goal for the club came in a 3-1 win over Stoke City in 2008, and another strike in the 1-1 draw at home to Hull City in the same season confirmed the Whites' top-flight status for another season. Steinsson remained at the club until August 2012 when he signed for Turkish side Kayserispor.

SCANDINAVIA

Since Iceland international Gudni Bergsson signed for the club in 1995, a number of Scandinavian players have also represented the Whites in the last 18 years. Danish players Per Frandsen, Henrik Pedersen and Claus Jensen, and Swedish internationals Christian Wilhelmsson and Johan Elmander have all plied their trade for the Trotters.

SHOCK

One of the club's biggest results came against Liverpool at Anfield in 1993's famous FA Cup replay. Having drawn at Burnden Park in the initial tie, goals from John McGinlay and Andy Walker gave the 8,500 travelling fans a night to remember at Anfield as Bruce Rioch's side claimed a well-earned 2-0 victory.

STUART GETS HANDS ON AT WINTER WATCH

Stuart Holden and his brother Euan spent Sunday evening volunteering at Winter Watch in Bolton to find out more about the project delivered by Urban Outreach.

Run annually during the coldest months of the year, Winter Watch provides a much needed service for homeless and roofless people with food, clothing, company and showers for 60-90 people per night.

Stuart and Euan's visit to the volunteer-run cafe came about following their inspiring work over the festive period, collecting and distributing food across the town to those in need and the brothers wanted to get further involved with other projects run by Urban Outreach.

Stuart spent his time at Winter Watch helping to keep the centre tidy and he spoke with volunteers and those using the service as well as taking part in a few games of dominoes.

Speaking after his time at Winter Watch, Stuart said: "It's been great to be able to spend some time down here and witness first-hand the amazing work that goes on to help those in need in Bolton. Euan and I had a really enjoyable evening meeting and interacting with those who use the service as well as getting hands on with serving food and helping keep the centre clean and tidy.

"Winter Watch is run entirely by volunteers and they put in a fantastic effort week in week out - they really are an inspiration."

Over 100 volunteers are involved in making meals, staffing the cafe and providing company and conversation for all who attend. Food and finance is provided by many individuals - more than 80 churches and 50 schools, a number of local businesses and Bolton Council.

Winter Watch seeks to raise the awareness of issues faced by homeless people in Bolton by speaking in churches and schools.

KEVIN DAVIES OFFICIALLY OPENS BWFC COMMUNITY LEARNING ZONE

Wanderers captain Kevin Davies officially opened the refurbished BWFC Community Learning Zone at the Reebok Stadium earlier this month.

Over the last couple of months various changes have been made to the learning zone to enhance Bolton Wanderers Community Trust and the Institute of Sport's offerings of education packages to the Bolton community.

The Community Trust will use the learning zone to deliver a wide variety of sessions including it's BTEC Futsal programme, study support sessions, enterprise programme, active family health sessions and visits from schools to the Reebok.

As well as the Community Trust, BWFC Institute of Sport will also use the facility to run a variety of educational offerings to both local and international students for young people aged between 15 and 19.

These programmes have a proven track record of engaging with disaffected young people facing social and economic challenges. Alongside this unique learning experience, the young people gain an academic qualification to support their progression into further education and employment.

Kevin spent his time at the Community Learning Zone meeting students who have benefitted from the facility, answering their questions about his career to date. He also gave advice to the young budding footballers in attendance who are attempting to break their way into the professional world of football. The session concluded with a photo and autograph signing session with the Wanderers' captain.

Jen Pemberton from Lateral UK donated a significant amount of IT equipment including laptops and printers. This will allow students to enhance their computer skills and to complete online programmes related to their courses. The interactive whiteboards also assist staff greatly in the delivery of lessons.

Ben Laycock, community cohesion manager with BWCT, commented: "The work that has been carried out in the CLZ will really enhance how we can work with local schools and other community groups, as well as those pupils who perhaps don't engage with mainstream schooling.

"We have a facility that can be used by schools to develop the learning of their pupils and raise the aspirations of the young people. It is also hoped that activities for those over the school age will be developed. We are grateful to those who have donated help and support to the refurbishment, especially Lateral UK."
